

OMEGA
INSTITUTE FOR HOLISTIC STUDIES

The United Breast Cancer Foundation (UBCF) is proud to announce a partnership with the Omega Institute of Rhinebeck, New York. Through a grant provided by UBCF, financial assistance will be offered to breast cancer patients and survivors so they can participate in classes, seminars, and other learning opportunities focused on holistic healing, health, and well-being at Omega's Rhinebeck, New York campus.

"I believe that in order to heal, achieve optimum health and overall well being, it is important to consider both the physical and spiritual aspects that make a person whole," said UBCF Executive Director, Ms. Stephanie Mastroianni. "I am delighted to announce the partnership of Omega and UBCF. As a student at Omega, I have experienced tremendous personal enrichment. On behalf of UBCF, I am pleased to provide the members of our community with this outstanding opportunity to embark on a path of health and wellness at Omega Institute."

Full and partial scholarships will be offered for weekend programs, covering tuition and room and board. Potential candidates can download an application at the UBCF web site (www.ubcf.info). A letter verifying health status from a doctor, two current pay stubs verifying income, and a completed application form should be mailed to Omega Institute, Scholarship Department, 150 Lake Drive, Rhinebeck, NY 12572-3252. If you do not have access to the Internet, please contact UBCF at 877-UBC-4CURE.

About the United Breast Cancer Foundation

UBCF's mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of those affected by breast cancer. UBCF believes that in order for true healing to occur, it is critical that a patient be treated as a whole person. This includes not only traditional medical approaches to breast cancer, which focus on the physical aspect of breast cancer and the body, but also caring for the individual's emotional and spiritual well-being. This is best achieved by utilizing holistic and alternative approaches to breast cancer treatments. UBCF believes that working with the mind-body-spirit connection is just as vital as treating the tumor.

About Omega Institute for Holistic Studies

The Omega Institute was founded in 1977 and has grown into the nation's most respected source for wellness and personal growth. Every year, more than 20,000 people attend workshops, seminars, conferences, and learning vacations. Most come to Omega's campus, which is situated on 195 acres in Rhinebeck, New York, but Omega also hosts events in New York City and in various places throughout the world. This year, there are retreats in Costa Rica, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and California. Omega is also building a year-round online community through live streaming and downloads.
